To achieve top performance while providing the best care possible, hospitals must commit to understanding and improving their quality metrics—as these measurement systems are the primary resource the public uses when making important care decisions.

In this Becker's webcast, Chartis Chief Medical and Quality Officer Andrew Resnick joins CMO of Froedtert Hospital Michael Stadler and Senior Director of Patient Safety & High Reliability of Cleveland Clinic Steve Mrozowski to discuss how commitment to ratings and rankings optimization drives high reliability care and more.
