Chartis, a leading healthcare advisory firm, today announced that Brett Weiss has joined the firm as a Digital & Technology Transformation Senior Partner. A seasoned consulting executive, Weiss is a healthcare technologist focused on business process optimization and cloud transformation using modern enterprise software.

“I’m proud to welcome Brett to our expanding team,” said Jody Cervenak, Managing Partner and Leader, Digital & Technology Transformation at Chartis. “Brett’s deep experience with cloud-based ERP solutions and his ability to leverage technology that enables critical decision-making will help our clients improve care delivery, drive business value, and make healthcare better for patients and communities.”

Weiss brings more than 27 years of experience helping clients modernize their operations through business and process transformation. Specializing in leading large implementation projects, Weiss will focus on complex ERP engagements and help ensure clients receive value from their technology investments.

Before joining Chartis, Weiss served as Vice President of Nordic Global, where he was responsible for leading their Advisory Services’ growth strategy. Prior to that, Weiss was a Principal and Senior Vice President at Avaap, a management consulting and ERP implementation services firm.

Weiss has a Bachelor of Arts in International Business from the University of Arizona and is a frequent industry speaker about trends, emerging technology, and solutions that are required for companies to keep pace with the rapidly evolving healthcare technology field.
