The Chartis Group, a leading provider of advisory services and analytics to the healthcare industry, announced its acquisition of The Greeley Company, the nation's leading provider of clinical effectiveness, regulatory compliance, CMS remediation, and physician and medical staff services. Having served over 2000 organizations nation-wide, Greeley's areas of expertise include clinical practice optimization, medical staff alignment, regulatory compliance and quality, accreditation, and credentialing and privileging.

Ken Graboys, CEO of The Chartis Group stated, "Greeley is an important addition to our firm. Its unparalleled expertise assisting providers both in advancing their clinical quality and effectiveness capabilities and in elevating their physician services will enable Chartis to even more comprehensively serve its clients as they navigate the transforming healthcare delivery landscape."

Steve Bryant, the President of Greeley commented, "We could not be more thrilled to be part of The Chartis Group. Like Chartis we are committed to helping providers and physicians in their ongoing efforts to improve clinical quality, effectiveness, and efficiency. We look forward to the expanded industry impact we will have through working together."

Headquartered in the greater Boston area, The Greeley Company's clients range from the nation's largest healthcare systems and academic medical centers to remote critical access rural hospitals. Greeley's unique approach and success in delivering implementable solutions has resulted in marked improvements in clinical efficiency, quality compliance, cost reduction, revenue, patient satisfaction, physician-hospital collaboration, and caregiver engagement and satisfaction in all settings.
